Tran Vinh Nguyen

Wyse Corp (Australia) Pty Limited

Ambassador to Vietnam

Member Asia-Pacific Environmental Centre Initiative
(www.apecgroup.org/apec.html)

Over the past decade, Tran Vinh Nguyen has built his career at the intersection of sustainable energy, international investment, and policy — helping turn Vietnam's green transition plans into bankable, real-world projects. Since April 2020, he has led Travavina ESTI Group JSC as CEO, where he drives cross-border investment into alternative energy for Vietnam and serves as senior expert for a Southern Asian consortium. The project he is proudest of is the Biomass Sustainable Aviation Fuel Production Facility in Khanh Hoa Province: 189 million litres per year of SAF, cutting roughly 400,000 tons of carbon annually. His work spans several global platforms. With WPP Energy Group in Switzerland since 2018, he helps authorize high-technology deployment and investment for renewable energy, focusing on waste-to-energy and green hydrogen production. As National Investment Director for Miami-based Hybrid Financial Corporation since 2020, he structures financing for SDGs-aligned projects across Vietnam. In October 2024 he joined DHT Energy Corporation in Canada as Nation Director, where he holds legal consular authorization to represent the company in Vietnam, manages government relationships, leads national alternative energy investments, and holds equity in the Khanh Hoa SAF project. He also serves as Vice President of Supernova Waste to Energy Corporation in British Columbia, channelling capital into Vietnam's waste-to-energy sector. From 2018 to 2024, he advised Sydney's Lucot Investment Group on finance and project funding for green infrastructure. His academic path reflects the same blend of business, people, and performance. He studied Hospitality Management at OSAC International University in Singapore, then Economic Commerce at University Canada West in Vancouver. He is also completing training as a movie actor at Artist Theatre University in Ho Chi Minh City, graduating 2027 — because storytelling and negotiation often use the same muscle. Bilingual in English and Vietnamese, he operates best where international networks meet local policy. His goal is simple: deliver sustainable projects that meet Vietnam's national energy plan while creating real economic and climate returns. His expertise spans international project finance, renewable energy development, government relations, and cross-border consortium leadership.
